Protect your workforce with the ZoonEx™ System

Works seamlessly with your existing ventilation system

Why you need ZoonEx™

Even with the highest level of manual cleaning, surfaces are at continual risk of contamination and the transference of microbes to multiply and grow.

Mechanical Ventilation Systems can provide ideal conditions for microbial growth bringing unclean air into office spaces causing 'Sick Building Syndrome' (SBS), aiding the spread of viruses like the common cold, influenza and Coronavirus family among building users.

How ZoonEx™ works to keep you protected

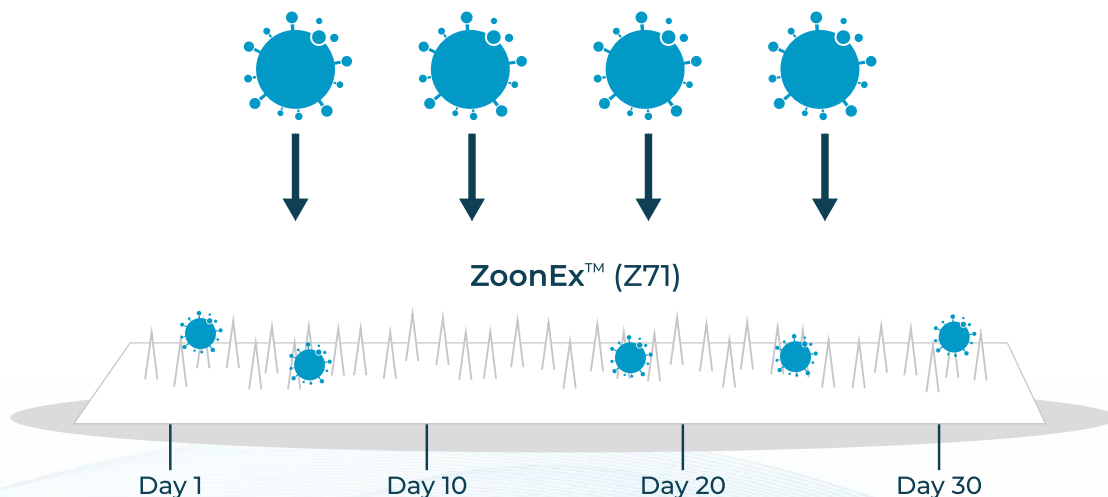

The ZoonEx™ System allows an antimicrobial treatment to bond to a clean surface, giving effective protection against bacteria and enveloped viruses (including Coronavirus family) for up to 30 days between treatments.

The coating bonds to the surface and forms a microscopic layer of pins that rupture bacteria and enveloped viruses, giving building occupants a protected/treated environment to work in.

Our simplified distribution process makes it easy to roll out to an office network globally.
